

MAILBOX

[...] Just wanted to say, I am really glad you are making Harpoon 4 (if you are still making it). I wrote you an email about mid 1997 pretty much expressing the same thing.

IF you are still going to make it a reality, imagine how it will kick ass on the newest generation of computers and video cards. It will really be some sim to have.

I remember playing Harpoon Deluxe for Windows and I would set up waypoints and resources and what not and leave the computer for work. Ten hours later the sim would still be waging the war - it was amazing to see how it all went by reading the pop ups and seeing the damage. And that was only one facet of the fun.

Are nukes still going to be an option, as planned?

Yours,

[anonymous]

This has sometimes been a matter of confusion...the HarpoonHQ is NOT developing any version of computer Harpoon, at least for the time being ;-). You can ask any H4-related questions directly to the developers at Ubisoft's official H4 forums.

[...] Where can I download DB-2000 for Harpoon 3?

Thanks,

[anonymous]

You can get it at: <http://www.harpoonhq.com> . All you have to do is download the DB and unzip it into your database folder. Just note that it will replace the current DB you've got in there so if you still want it, back it up:) Also, the scenarios have to be compatible with the DB. The one's that came on the disk are not. However, you've got 100 (currently) to chose from at the site and these include many of the original scenarios rebuilt to work with the DB2K.

Hello! You run a great website!

I was a fan of the original Harpoon when it came out (I still have the 5.25" disks!). I recently came across a "Harpoon Classic" CD for Windows (by Alliance Interactive Software?). I'm running the game on an XP system and it works fine. However, in the Designer Series III MEDC battleset, most of the subs start the scenarios weapon-less. I haven't noticed this problem with any of the other battlesets. Have you come across this problem before and do you know of a patch to fix it?

[anonymous]

Firstly, we will tell you are very lucky ! The Harpoon Classic (or HC, for short) version you describe is a rare find these days. Can we ask where you found it?

There was another version in the "Classic" format, called Harpoon Classic 97 (or HC97), which is also hard to find.

Then, there is the latest "Classic" version, called Harpoon Classic 2002 (or HC2002), which was recently released in Autumn 2002. It is currently available only as a download upgrade for HC97, but once the ongoing work on the database/scenario editor is complete, you should be able to order the whole game on a CD.

You should be able to find all the information and patches you need for HC at the following link:

<http://www.foto.infi.net/~edladner/>. IIRC, there were a couple of patches for HC, but I do not remember if either of them fixes the problem you describe. Try it, and let us know. Good luck and happy harpooning!

I bought the game (Harpoon 3) online a while ago and received several files and then installed them. everything works fine. I have one question - is there a scenario editor included with the new game? There was one with the older versions and it was fun to change platforms to see the results. Any help would be appreciated.

[anonymous]

Sure is. Look for the scenedit.exe file in your Harpoon directory. When Jesse releases upgrades to his site at <http://www.harpoonhq.com> you will see both executables available for download.

This article first appeared on the 1st issue of the Waypoint magazine, December 2002. All original author rights reserved. No replication of any part of this article is allowed without the author's explicit consent.
